BLOG POST - NON-SOLICITATIONS & PATIENT ABANDONMENT

FLAT FEE PROJECT DESCRIPTION
$85

PROJECT DETAILS

This blog post aims to provide information to healthcare providers who call us with the following question: "I'm leaving my practice, but my employment contract has a non-solicitation clause. I'm not allowed to solicit my current patients to follow me to my new practice. But my ethical obligations also require that I not abandon a patient. Where's the balance here? What can I tell my patients when I'm leaving the practice? Can I tell them where I'm going? Can I take a copy of my patients' records with me, in case they need care from me in the future?"

DRAFT BLOG ARTICLE ABOUT NDA PLAYBOOK CREATION

FLAT FEE PROJECT DESCRIPTION

$200

I need a blog post on the topic of NDA playbook creation and use for companies and law firms. It should inform a business person and in house counsel on how NDA negotiation playbooks are created, what form they take, and how they are used.

PROJECT DETAILS

The article should be 1100-1500 words and should provide an idea of what goes into an NDA negotiation playbook. What do they typically look like? Who has access to them? Are playbooks created for use by companies different from playbooks for outside law firm use?

It might contain short samples of alternative clauses that are acceptable (e.g., if the client typically requires marking, will it agree to marked or identified as confidential, or such that a reasonable person would know it is confidential).

It might also provide sample comments about when compromises can be accepted and by whom (with or without legal review).

It might explain what a reviewer should do if the proposed NDA provision is prohibited by the playbook. For example, an attorney would have a discussion with the client about whether or not to accept the term, propose to strike it, or propose a modification, after a discussion of the specific facts and circumstances.

I expect the project to take 2 to 3 hours, assuming you write an outline, a first draft, and then proofread and revise a couple of times. If you have access to Grammarly or a similar tool, please use that before sending the near-final proposed blog post. Please do not spend time looking for photos or graphics, but insert a comment if you think of something that would be good.

EXCEEDED EXPECTATIONS

BLOG POST ABOUT NEW 2019 ILLINOIS LAWS - SHORT TIMELINE

FLAT FEE PROJECT DESCRIPTION $150

We need a contract attorney to draft a blog post for release to our clients this weekend. The post outlines new Illinois legislation taking effect on January 1. We already created a list of items, but they need to be summarized so as to be understandable to lay readers.

PROJECT DETAILS

I have a list of approximately 50 new Illinois laws which take effect on January 1. We're a regulatory healthcare firm that works with healthcare practices, physicians, dentists, health tech start-ups, and similar companies to open their practices and maintain compliance. Staying abreast of changes in the laws is crucial for these clients.

I would like a short summary of each law, telling the reader who it impacts and what it means for them. Some of them will be very short. For example, HB5745 allows nursing mothers to be excused from jury duty upon request. This would be of interest to physicians (especially ob-gyns) who may be asked to provide a doctor's note to excuse their nursing patient from jury duty. They can now educate their patients about this right.

For others -- such as the slew of firearms-related laws allowing businesses to seek restraining orders against threatening individuals or increasing the scope of people ineligible to hold a firearm owner's ID card -- they may be described together. Something like: Illinois legislators also made a strong statement with the new firearms-related laws taking effect. Businesses can now take out a restraining order against someone who blah blah blah (HB1234), workers can raise red flags with blah blah (HB5678), and employers are required to blah blah (HB9012).

Finally, for others, they'll require a more in-depth look at the legislative history and purpose -- especially those pertaining to telehealth and telemedicine.

In some way or another, all of the laws on this list have the potential to impact our healthcare provider clients.

I'd estimate this blog post will be over 2,000 words in length, especially with the extensive summaries and/or legislation titles to be included. However, I've already pulled all of the bill short summaries and numbers, so it should go pretty quickly when reviewing them on the IL legislature site. I'd estimate that some will take 2 minutes to review while others may take 20-30 minutes, so on the balance, I think the project should take <5 hours.
